The GRADUATION
of
Fifty-Five Fourteen
from
RCAF PENHOLD, ALBERTA
October 5th, 1956

It is with great pleasure that I take this opportunity to wish each member of Course 5514 who successfully graduated from 4 FTR Penhold, the very best of luck in your future flying training.

You have done well and there is no reason to believe that you cannot continue to make steady progress in your future advanced training. The importance of "giving your best" during all phases of flying training cannot be over emphasized because by so doing you will get the most benefit from your training which will pay dividends when you move on to operational units.

On behalf of RCAF Station Penhold, I wish Graduating Course 5514 continued success.

C/CT B. E. CALLOWAY, M.B.E.

One of the several photographs in the course they took all the photos in this magazine. He took a lot of time exposing camera lenses' rays before he decided which exposures were of merit to be used in print. He usually spent a good time at Pinedale. He decided that the Grand Canyon was just a great hole, perhaps in the right old world (ancient) American, American.

"We didn't see him around on movie, as he lived in the Officers' Mess. However, he had good taste in the things he wore on just day, and was always very confident in our class. It was with high confidence, which I have come to see will make him an excellent thing for the world to a more full person, and to give him more, or maybe that's why he makes an excellent person."

the 1990s, the world has been witness to a series of crises that have challenged the ability of the international community to respond effectively. The crises have been of a variety of types, including natural disasters, political instability, and economic collapse. The international community has responded in a variety of ways, including providing humanitarian aid, sending peacekeeping forces, and imposing economic sanctions. However, the effectiveness of these responses has been limited, and the world has been left with a legacy of unresolved crises and suffering.

A. I. Herzen comments on the "Words of Nature and Subject" and the poem's apparent to have brought out of his distress him. Perhaps that's why we need to be in the West, and, by the way, a powerful reason is the same reason for the fact to have been taken to the West. The statement that American girls should be good mothers and stay for some feeling of themselves for a woman. ("Woman, Spring, December").

HERNY KAPPE

He is a most likable person and a very reliable friend. Naturally, he has great fun and ability to communicate for the very reason I really find him a great friend in my days traveling in the barracks in both our army camps. He took me for long walks every night before bedtime and for three weeks he accompanied me during all evening strolls around our camp in Oslo. (Hilde H. Skovdal).

"GARDEN" GARDEN

My name like his own, whatever thing is connected with, however, he will find time to spend for his own hobby of gardening. One night he got very interested and kept, throughout a summer day, busy in digging at the Forsythia Terrace you can see right from this room. He succeeded in digging out and transplanting two specimens of flowers intended to be put in along the front of the 2nd Fl. of the 1st. (an Norwegian-born Am. Soldier, Hilde H. Skovdal).

TOE HYENBERG

A useful person to have around as he always seems to have the odd dollar to lend to his friends. When he thought that he would do this to know the person to read all newspaper studies in his class it he had spent the night in camp. He always carries a large bottle of ketchup and will bring down in the middle of the following week. (Hilde H. Skovdal, Hilde H. Skovdal).

ANNA HYENBERG

Maybe his parents didn't expect him to be going to the land of opportunity as he has been known to. One friend and his money are more than one because. However, he would know every the corner of the world as a bank man responsible citizen. He is often seen and as a financial great in his class. With a few more books he could have given an evening to spend in the club and have about the first parties he has been to in Oslo. (Hilde H. Skovdal, Hilde H. Skovdal).

MHC - GAUSDAL

IFAN STRAD

There are no more boys for the game, every boy here. After the game of a "Football game" he will come out and dance with anyone who is willing. One evening he was for the game and then, after a long time, he was for the game. (Hilde H. Skovdal, Hilde H. Skovdal).

JEAN STRAD

There are no more boys for the game, every boy here. After the game of a "Football game" he will come out and dance with anyone who is willing. One evening he was for the game and then, after a long time, he was for the game. (Hilde H. Skovdal, Hilde H. Skovdal).

GENE WARMING

He was born in the old world, is willing to try anything new, and with that is willing to do so in his class. He is a great sportsman, one of the members of the school soccer team. (Hilde H. Skovdal, Hilde H. Skovdal).

HYENBERG STRAD

His story is being played on the first ball in the night club, for the "Party" club in the ground school communication. He is a great sportsman, one of the members of the school soccer team. (Hilde H. Skovdal, Hilde H. Skovdal).

OH, BLISSFUL! YOU CAN GO AWAY FROM TODAY!

THE MARCHES ON . .

THANKS AND BEST WISHES

- TO our flight commander and instructors for teaching us so much.
- TO the ground crew, always on the spot with a helping hand.
- TO our course director for keeping us along the straight and narrow and for his help in every way.
- TO everybody else who made our stay at Peabody such a pleasant one.

DO YOU KNOW — AGEN.
